2nd Generation Releases Debut Single from New Album – I See a City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – 2nd Generation is proud to announce the release of group's debut single from their sophomore release – I See a City.

The single is the title cut from the new album, "I See a City". The song was written by award-winning singer/songwriter Gerald Crabb. The song is being promoted to Southern Gospel radio through the Rick Hendrix Company and can be found on the company's brand new compilation disc, which goes for adds this month. "I See a City" is available on Rick Hendrix Company Compilation 60.

2nd Generation's Elaine Parks said, "Radio was very kind to us on our debut album, and we can't wait for them hear this new single. Gerald wrote another fantastic song in 'I See a City'."

Rick Hendrix of the Rick Hendrix Company said, "I have always loved and appreciated the music and ministry of 2nd Generation. I feel their music and song is going to connect well with radio and fans."

I See a City was produced by award-winning songwriter Gerald Crabb for Premier Crabb Productions. The up-and-coming trio recorded vocals at the end of February in Hendersonville, Tennessee at Daywind Studio A.

The new recording features some of Nashville's most prized studio musicians such as Jeremy Medkiff, Gary Prim, Dan Needham, Adam Crabb, and more. I See a City was engineered by Justin Kropf and was mixed by Trey Corley. The new album features a mix of new material and older songs that have played a major influence in the group.

I See a City is the follow-up to the group's break-out album, Who Wants to Praise the Lord? That album spawned off the hit singles "Hanging On a Nail", "When He Chose Me", and the group's first Top 80 hit "Trouble Me No More." I See a City is available to purchase at concerts and other events.
